San Ramon Valley Genealogical Society

Vol. XXVIII No. 6, Jan - 2013

THIS MONTH – January 15, 2013

“Gen-Legacy Planning, What Will Happen to Your Research After You're Gone “

Presented by: Patricia Burrow

Patricia will talk about some of the things we can do to ensure that those hard found stories do not get lost again and our family history research is preserved for future generations.

Once you retire, people want to know just how you keep yourself busy all day. When you tell them you love genealogy, they never ask again. After a career in the Silicon Valley tech world as a project manager, Pat retired to what she thought was going to be a year or two of researching four grandparent lines back to the edge of the pond. Now, almost a decade later, she is still working on those four lines. She has published several articles and stories about her ancestors and is working on a book about her adopted grandmother and the two families that loved her. In addition to lecturing, she leads several groups in the genealogy community. One of her passions is teaching Reunion for the Mac and other Apple programs as tools used for genealogy research. Her mantra is, “Your kids won’t throw away a book with their surname on it. Publish, publish, publish.” With her husband, four children, eight grandchildren, and a love of travel and history, Pat always has something to keep herself busy. ■

From the November Meeting

“Family Tree in Family Search ”

Speaker: Virginia Kysh

Reporter: Lee Schlenker

Patty Erickson introduced our speaker, Virginia Kysh, who has been doing her own research for more than forty years. She has been a speaker for sixteen years and teaches this new Family Tree in Family Search to the Antioch FHC staff. She wanted to share her knowledge with us also. This is a new merging program and is in its infancy. So, there are many more changes to come through time. Mid December is slated for the pilot release of this program.

She started off by showing us how to find training videos from Roots Tech 2012 - and while she was demonstrating, Virginia lost her wireless signal and couldn’t retrieve it for the power point presentation.

Ron Tanner was the product manager of Family Tree. LDS Family Search asked Ron Tanner to aid in merging these two databases. In essence Family Tree will merge pedigrees with the Family Search website and vice versa. If you enter your own family history and there is already ► a duplication within the program, it will notify you that it is a duplicate and give you the most recent information update. You can work from “the here and now” and go backward. You will be able to have your questions and information challenged through discussions with others interested in the same pedigree as you. Getting the data right with sources and working with others is Family Tree’s focus.

Since this is a new evolving program, there is a new vocabulary to get used to.

Details Page: this is where a Family Tree screen shows all of the information about one person. You can view or enter your sources, edit vital info or other info and family relationships. You can begin or participate in a discussion - or find duplicates. To this page more will be added eventually like photos and scanned documents as well as linking to a third party database.

Note: this box shows the husband/wife relationship. It can expand to see other spouses and children. By clicking on the individual you ► will see the summary card.

Summary Card: this box shows the most important information about the person in the system. By clicking on the individual’s name a summary card will appear.

Source: the record or the person who supplied the information.

Tags: attaches the source to an event such as birth, marriage, gender, age, etc.

Synchronize: a feature of some third-party programs that can do the following:

- Add information from your database to the system without using GEDCOM.
- Add selected information from the system to your database.
- Combine duplicate records.
- Separate records that were incorrectly combined.

Your data can be edited. So, be careful, do your homework, watch for your own errors. When in doubt, do more research on your part. Be sensitive and kind of others. Provide good explanations of why you are changing this information, listing where you found the evidence supporting your correction.

There is also a “watch” button within the program which will let you know when information has been added or updated on a pedigree.

Pre-pilot release is what you will find at the present. Pilot release will happen in mid-December this year. Virginia is waiting as patiently as possible for this pilot release!

Register to use Family Tree: http://familysearch.org/invite/familytree\_tab

After you have logged onto this sight you are allowed to input up to 100 names from your GEDCOM. Virginia suggests that 100 names is a very good start (less would be good too), but don’t try to input your 1,000+ names. It could very well bog down the whole system. These problems are being worked out before the pilot release.

Virginia suggests that you watch the videos again and again to refresh yourself and learn what you might have forgotten with this program!

President's Message

By Dick Finn

Hello and Happy New Year,

Your genealogy society has a lot going on. Take a look, in this issue of our newsletter, at all of the SIGS we have for you to take part in and help advance your research skills. If you do not find one that you might be interested in I would be amazed, but if you think we have missed a SIG that would be useful to our members please let Bill George or any member of the Board know and we will see what we can do about getting a new SIG started.

The Program Committee has some very interesting speakers planned for the remainder of the year so you will not want to miss any of our general meetings. If you have heard of outstanding speakers that you think our members might be interested hearing please let Rae, Diane, or Patty know.

Suzanne Johnston is "retiring" as our contact with the Family History Center. When you see Suzanne please let her know how thankful we are for her service to the genealogical community. Thank you Suzanne. Suzanne is being replaced by Carol Parmley. Please stop by the FHC to introduce yourself and welcome Carol.

We will be taking part in Ask Granny programs at local retirement homes and senior centers. If you know of a facility that might like to take part in Ask Granny please let Patrick Lofft or me know.

If you have suggestions on how to make our society more useful to our members and the community please let us know.

Dick

Our SIGs are at full strength this month. You can verify meeting dates and times by viewing SIG information on our web site at <http://srvgensoc.org/sig.html> and the SIG calendar at <http://srvgensoc.org/calendar.html>. Topics for each month's SIGs are listed in this newsletter by Verne Segelke. Two SIGs meet before our general meeting: The Irish Research SIG on the 2nd Wednesday and the DNA SIG on the 2nd Thursday. download family trees on Ancestry.com with Family Tree Maker. The SIG helps you with the Ancestry interaction and also helps with how to effectively use Ancestry.com. The topic this month is merging data with your Family Tree Maker database.

Good FamilySearch.org information can be found on James Tanner's "Genealogy's Star" Blog at <http://genealogysstar.blogspot.com/>. I've seen James speak several times and he's as good in person as he is when he writes, especially when he describes the FamilySearch.org web site. ■

One-size-fits-all family tree.

A TREASURE FROM "BEYOND"

By: Julia M. Case and Myra Vanderpool Gormley

For more than a decade, I had been searching for information on my elusive ancestor, Jeremiah REED, who died in the mid-1800s in Hamilton Square (old Nottingham Square), New Jersey. The cemetery in which he was buried was now under a paved parking lot behind a church-turned-auction house, and I could find no record of his birth.

Research in New Jersey wills provided a clue: Jeremiah REED was identified as "nephew" and executor to Jonathan PIERSON of Lawrenceville, New Jersey. Several more days of searching old Hunterdon County court records turned up a 1776 paternity suit, in which the entire ancient love affair was recounted and Azariah REED of Trenton/Maidenhead, New Jersey was proven to be the father.

Armed with this information, I placed the genealogical data in the New Jersey State Library and in several databases. Then I placed queries in the REED surname index at RootsWeb. I had a response from a REED gentleman from nearby Lawrenceville, New Jersey, who claimed to have the Jeremiah REED Bible. We arranged a visit and he brought the tattered old book. Yes, it contained the birth, marriage, and death records of ► Jeremiah REED and his children, but then some families simply copy earlier information into Bibles for each of the children. However, the publication date was in the early 1800s, so it was possible that this was the genuine Bible of Jeremiah REED. We paged through the old Bible, finding newspaper articles from a much later time period, articles whose significance was lost to us.

Then I saw a small stained and folded paper -- a bookmark, suggested the gentleman. I unfolded it and read the faint handwriting that said:

Jeremiah Reed is my name,
America is my station,
Nottingham Square is my dwelling place,
and Christ is my salvation.
When I am dead and gone
and all my bones are rotten
and you should read this,
then I am not forgotten."
[signature of Jeremiah REED]

A personal "thank you" for bringing to light the details of his life? I like to think so. ■
